A Cultural, Technical & Trade Bridge Between Japan & India

The Japanese Tenacity...

It cannot be helped but to start this edition of e-Nihon Mon with a touch of remorse and regret for the natural disaster that befell Japan on that fateful afternoon of the 11th of March 2011. Nevertheless, we are confident that the Japanese perseverance backed by their disaster preparedness shall soon help them overcome these stressful times and our sincere prayers are with them during this.

A quick yet detailed check on our associates and friends in Japan lead us to believe that all of them are safe even if shaken. This sudden act of Mother Nature has deeply saddened our members with an emotion usually reserved for personal deprivations. An evening of commiseration followed by fund raising activities was our way of showing togetherness with Japan and its countrymen.

The 9th and 10th of March 2011 was the time for The Japan Cultural Festival in Chennai and as always, our centre was deeply involved in all activities of this much looked-forward to event. However, the timing proved to be a cruel chronicled coincidence.....

This quarter gave us yet another opportunity to welcome Mr. Kazuo Kaneko, President, AOTS – Japan to our centre. His appreciation of our activities and encouragement has only deepened our love for the cause and the resolve to continue our efforts.

His Excellency Mr. Kazuo Minagawa, Consul General of Japan in South India bid farewell to Chennai in the month of March 2011. He shall be remembered as an inspiring Diplomat who lent much grace to all that he did and our members will miss his presence. We wish him and the genial Madam Consul General, Lan Minagawa all success and fortune in their paths. We also place our continued efforts with Mr. Takayuki Kitagawa, Acting Consul General and are confident of his support, as always extended by him.

The next quarter brings with it two important and celebrated festivals in Japan – Hanami and Kodomo-no-hi. The Hanami is held during the month of April for enjoying flowers, particularly cherry blossoms. In some areas the peach blossom, the traditional flower of Japan (the Cherry being a symbol from the Edo period symbolising the Samurai culture), is viewed as well, though this flowers earlier than the Cherry. In some places flower viewing parties are held on traditionally fixed dates. This is one of the most popular events during spring. The subject of flower viewing has long held an important place in literature, dance and the fine arts.

Kodomo-no-hi or the Iris Festival is celebrated in the month of May. The tall-stemmed Japanese iris is a symbolic flower. Its long, narrow leaves resemble the sharp blades off a sword, and for many centuries it has been the custom to place iris leaves in a boy's bath to give him a martial spirit. Originally, May 5 was a festival for boys corresponding to the Doll Festival for girls, but in 1948 it was renamed Children's Day and made a national holiday. However, this might be a misnomer; the symbols of courage and strength mainly honor boys. It is customary on this day for families with male children to fly koinobori (carp streamers, a symbol of success) outside the house, display warrior dolls (musha ningyō) inside, and eat chimaki (rice cakes wrapped in cogan grass or bamboo leaves) and kashiwamochi (rice cakes filled with bean paste and wrapped in oak leaves).

As Japan comes to term with its distress and bounces back to its glorious days, our wishes are firmly with them for more uplifting times ahead. Hail the 'Gaman' and 'Akiramenai' spirit!!!

Yours,

Hari & Paddy

Editors-in-Chief

Dear all

It is with a Heavy heart all of us read the news of the Tsunami, earth quake and the after effects in the North Eastern Japan. Japanese People's Sprit has always made them to live and succeed in the most adverse moments in their lives as an Island nation facing constant threat from nature.

I feel it is their GAMAN Spirit, which can be said in English as patience; perseverance; tolerance; self-control; self-denial, and Pushing oneself to the Limits GAMBARI sprit which is in English can also be said as tenacity; endurance, are the reasons for living and managing Nature and facing most difficult times in their History. It is the Japanese basic Philosophy of life AKIRAMENAI, which is "never give up" even in the SHIGATA GA NAI (it can't be helped; it's inevitable) situations, has made this nation great.

I am sure, these 4 basic Japanese way of looking at life differently from other nations, will make Japan to bounce back, to show the world that they are the Phoenix of Modern times and SENDAI will celebrate its famous TANABATA festival soon. We people of India and ABK AOTS DOSOKAI stay with our Japanese friends in our thoughts, and sprit and wish them a very quick bounce back.

Yours,
M. R. Ranganathan
Chairman – ABK – AOTS DOSOKAI

JAPANESE DOLLS EXHIBITION

“The Dolls of Japan”

---8th to 9th February 2011---

The Consulate-General of Japan at Chennai, ABK-AOTS DOSOKAI, Tamilnadu Centre and the Japan Foundation organized the Japanese Dolls Exhibition “The Dolls of Japan”, from 08 to 19 Feb 2011 at Anna Centenary Library, Chennai. About 70 dolls were displayed in this exhibition introducing fine examples of a variety of Japanese representative dolls.

In Japan, dolls have been a part of everyday life since ancient times. Japanese dolls reflect the customs of Japan and the aspirations of its people, possess distinctive regional attributes, and over the centuries have developed in many diverse forms. Dolls also provide a showcase of traditional Japanese craft products such as textiles.

Old Japanese traditions such as “Hina Matsuri (Girls’ Festival)” have fostered this unique culture of dolls. This traditional appreciation for dolls has resulted in the belief that dolls are not only children’s toys but also works of art to be displayed and admired. Furthermore, familiar themes from Noh and Kabuki dramas have been incorporated into the culture of dolls, thus creating unlimited styles.

Japanese dolls are characterized by their serene facial expressions. These delicate expressions are achieved by carefully sculpting the outer layer of pulverized oyster shell which covers the dolls’ faces. Another important characteristic is the dolls’ beautiful colors showing the richness of ancient costume and pageantry.

Mr. Kazuo Minagawa, Consul-General of Japan at Chennai inaugurated the Exhibition at 11:00 a.m. on Tuesday, 08 February 2011 at Anna Centenary Library, Chennai
